

Introduction to Trauma, Attachment, and Sensory Intervention

This workshop will provide an introduction to the foundations of trauma and attachment as they shape behaviour, perception, and relationships throughout the lifespan. An introduction to sensory intervention and research around the efficacy of this approach will also be provided.

Participants will gain an introductory understanding of:

- the impact of trauma and attachment on brain development, behaviours, and relationships throughout life
- implicit and explicit memory
- common symptoms, themes, and behaviours of traumatized individuals
- about trauma as a sensory experience
- providing sensory interventions
- how to help someone who has experienced trauma
- how to create a trauma-informed organization

All ATTCH trainings are based on current research by leading experts in trauma and attachment and include best-practice and evidence-based techniques and approaches.

Advance registration is required. The cost is $50. Register by completing the form below or online at www.attch.org
